WHEN writing the other day on the ruas a possible successor to the post of British ableness for the appointment. We did not then look round for other possible claimants to the honour of succeeding Sir John Wals-HAM at Peking or assuredly we should not . His eminent abilities, his long experience, already been recognised in these columns as by whom indeed he has been singled out as desired in Her Majesty's Minister to China. might perhaps add a good deal more, as we the abilities and character of the British Gonsul at Canton. But it would be idle for us not to recognise that there is one rather serious stumbling block in the way of Mr. ATABASTER's promotion to the Legation at Peking. Unfortunately for British interests in China he is not the senior Consul. Mr. P. J. HUGHES, the Consul-General at Shanghai, than whom it would be difficult to find a more genial gentleman or worthier mun, has fifteen months seniority over Mr. ALABASTER, and in the ordinary course the Foreign Office would hesitate to pass over Mr. Hughes. There are no black marks on the latter's record; on the contrary he has an excellent list of services to his credit. That he has never been mentioned as possible Minister is due to the conviction widely entertained that he has not the firmness and decision of character necessary for success in that capacity. Mr. Hughes has won general esteem by his modesty, kindliness of heart, and genuine amiability of character. but he is not the kind of man the Foreign Office would select as likely to prove a 123 successful diplomatist. The case is other wise with Mr. ALABASTER, and his di plomatic abilities have been recognised by his employment on special work on various occasions when tact, judgment and decision were specially required. Such for instance as when in 1862 he was lent to the Chinese Government to assist in the re rganization of the Sung-kinng force; when in 1864 he was appointed to proceed to Nanking to congratulate the Viceroy on the capture of that city; and when he was noted Shippers, are imported in wood and bottled deputed in the same year to go to Soochow with the Russian Consul-General to investigate the case of certain Europeans who had been murdered there. In short, while Mr. Hughes will probably not be considered suitable as Minister, Mr. ALABASTER'S BETvices, attainments, and abilities mark him-. have said, the seniority question may bar his died of Mauritlus fever, five other seamen were way to the Legation, and it is possible that down with the same disease in more or less looking elsewhere for a successor to Sir JOHN WALSHAM. DRIFTING FOR FORTY-EIGHT DAYS.

A FEVER-STRICKEN SHIP. The British barque Lancefield, Captain Burgs, which arrived here vesterday from New York. brings a terrible tale of the seas On the 22nd June lest, when in Lat. 22.28 S. Long. 110.5 E she fell in with a British barque flying distress signals. On going alongside the vessel, a terrible state of affairs was discovered. The vessel was the Guiding Star, and was bound from Mauritius to Hobart Town. with a cargo of sugar. The captain, the mate, the steward, and one of the seamen had sente form, and of the whole ship's company, but one man was able to get about. steward had been the first to-sicken and he had died in the early part of May, the other victims following him, with but a few days interval between the deaths. The ship had been drifting for forty-eight days and there was that Captain Burns would take them on board his ship. This request it was, of course, impossible to accede to, Captain Burns consider. He, however, sent his mate and two seamen on board to navigate the ship, and he also sent them coals, medicine, extract of beef and other comforts. Both ships then left for Anjer. The Lancefield arrived there at about $.30 pm. on the 10th July and about an hour and a half later the Guiding Star arrived. 'I he mate, who was in charge of her reported that no further deaths had occurred, probably owing to the medicine and attention the men had received, and that there was done me the honour to forward, together with some improvement in the condition of the sick. All of them, however, were suffering from the General of Indo-China, the reports of the trials "shakes," and the boatswain, doubtless from the steamer Meduca. from Trieste, left Singapore state of idiocy. Captain Burns communicated Aréthuse and the gunboat Comèle. with the British Consul at Batavia, and it was arranged that the ship should be sent on to that port. The services of the mate being required have been drawn. on board his own ship, and no mate being obtainable at Anjer, one of the pilots there was put on board to take her to Batavia, the two seamen from

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. with the Puntl and Mandabin PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office. Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stants unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, orck, having arrived from the above and in science generally, which the rapid advance ignees of Cargo are hereby requested of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are orck, having arrived from the above their Bills of Lading for counter- here given in extenso. Each and every word is by the Undersigned and to take fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises delivery of their goods from along. For students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given rgo impeding her discharge will be the accents heing carefully marked on the best to the Golowns of the Hongkong, minciple hitherto attained. The typography Wharf & Godown Company Limited, displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size ms will be admitted after the Goods of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of ie Godowns, and all Goods remaining. snace, achieving a clearness not proviously d after the 8th instant, will be subject attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and yearnt spaces which have heretofore charac-4 terized Chinese publications. the Godowns, where they will be

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 800,000 Chinese charactors. Again, dospite all the grammers and other glamentary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutaly requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pubsig west risk. The Cargo will be ready y from Craft or Godown on and after

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted.
To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large
